

ALOE VERA

Pratel Kantuy Krape

Medicinally used for hypertension, indigestion, menstrual disorders, eye and ear diseases, constipation, numbness, paralysis, skin diseases and disorders, menorrhagia and as a tonic agent.

AMANRANTH

Ptiey

BANANA

Jayk

Sweete edible fruits. Leaves of the trees are used as packaging. The trunk and stump are edible.

BETEL NUT TREE

Sla

In local medicine, leaves, fruits and roots are considered efficacious against diarrhea, bronchitis and liver diseases.

CARAMBOLA (star fruit)

Spenn

Used in the treatment of melena, urolthiasis and perspiration.

CASHEW TREE

Sway Chantiy

CELOSIA

Sey moan

In Cambodia the seeds are used in traditional Chinese medicine to make lotions against ophthalmias.

COCONUT

Dong

Used to treat dyspepsia, flatulence, indigestion, as a central nervous system stimulant, to increase urination and perspiration, insomnia and urinary disorders.

CRATEVA

Thngan

The bark is used in traditional medicine, in particular for the treatment of diseases of delivering women.

CUSTARD APPLE

Teab

Can be used to treat various ulcers and sores, arthritis, inflammation, oedema, as a tonic agent and to promote spermatogenesis.

DRAGON FRUIT

Srokaniat

ERISMANTHUS

Nuen Srey

Flowers sometimes used by women to adorn hair.

EUCALYPTUS

EUGENIA

Pring doh kbey

The decoction of leaves barks and wood is used as antidiabetic.

FICUS

Chre Kerem

Several types of ficus

FIG TREE

Lwvia

FLAME TREE

Grognout

FRANGIPANI

Champy saa

The heart of the wood is used as a vermifuge. The plants milky bark is applied as a plaster over hard tumors and to dispel indolent swelling. Internally the root bark is a strong purgative and used as a laxative. Studies have shown potential anti-viral properties.

GALANGAL

Rundeng

Used n the treatment of indigestion, flatulence, dyspepsis, colic, nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, cough, haemoptysis, fever, allergic reactions, amenorrhoea, laxation and as a bloody purifying agent.

GARCINIA

Tromeing

Wood used for construction

GOOSEBERRY

Gontuit

In traditional Cambodian medicine, the stalks and leaves are reputedly used as an emetic. In some regions of Cambodia, the leaves have reputedly been used as a poultice against lumbago and sciatica. Infusion of the roots also has medicinal properties.

GUAVA TREE

Traback

The astringent leaves are used in Cambodia to treat diarrhea. The barks and fruits are used for the same purpose.

JACKFRUIT

Tnau

Leaves can be used to treat hypertension, diarrhea, indigestion. The sap is used to remove pus from abscess and wounds.

JASMINE

Meli

In traditional medicine, the flowers are a component of a lotion to calm cutaneous pruritus; they also enter the preparation of a paste used in the treatment of childrens' lips ulcers.

JUSTICIA

Mit Jool Pick

The crushed grown up leaves can be used under the form of decoction, against chronic rheumatism with inflammation of articulations

KAPOK

Daum Koh

LEUCAENAN

Gontomt

The plant is used medicinally as an analgesic.

LICUALA

Parau

In traditional Cambodian medicine the roots are a component of a febrifuge remedy and for the health of the foetus. The bark of the trunk can be effective against tuberculosis.

LIMNOPHILA

Lwvia

In traditional medicine, the twigs and the leaves are components of an antispasmodic remedy.

LUFFA (sponge gourd)

Nonong

The leaves are used in the treatment of whooping cough, dengue fever and fever. The seed is used as a diuretic, to treat intestinal worms and coughs. The vine for backache, bronchitis, coughs and rhinitis.

MANGO

Sway

In traditional medicine, the barks and roots are used against different diseases: dysentery rheumatism and venereal diseases.

MELASTOMA

Riak chpeh

In traditional Khmer medicine the roots are given in infusion in the cases of fainting, dizziness. They enter also the composition of a remedy for the treatment of liver diseases involving jaundice.

MICHELIA

Champa

Cultivated for its fragrant flowers, used to make necklaces.

MORINGA

Morum

Used in the treatment of: menstrual disorders, tingling and numbness oedema, dry coughs memorrhagia, hypertension. Also used to help increase spermatogenesis and to improve memory.

NEEM

Sdao

Used in the treatment of diabetes skin diseases, malaria, fever, dysentery, colic, round worm and pin worm, injuries and oedema.

NONI TREE

Daum noo (sp)

ORANGE

Kroik

ORANGE JESSAMINE

Do Ken

Medicinally used for injuries, abscesses, cellulitis, skin disorders. Pyrexia due to infected wounds, measles.

PALM TREE

Tnaut

Can be used to treat dyspepsia, flatulence, to promote digestion, to stimulate the nervous system, abdominal colic.

PAPAYA

L'hong

PINEAPPLE

Monouh

Medicinally the fruits have the reputation to be diuretic. The root has the same use. The sour fruit can be used as purgative and vermifuge. The root is also a component remedy against gonorrhoea, backache and kidney diseases.

POMELO

Kroik Tlong

Cultivated for its fruits.

ROMDUL

Runduel

The dried flowers are considered a general tonic, particularly a cardiac tonic. It is also reputedly used to treat faintness.

SAPODILLA

Lemut

Sweet edible fruits.

SESBANIA

Enkia Dey

The bark is used in popular medicine against different diseases such as diarrhoea, dysentery and malaria. The juice of the flowers, introduced into the nostrils, would be effective against head colds and headaches

SOURSOP

Teab Barang

STAR GOOSEBERRY

Slok Ngop

In traditional medicine, the roots are used in decoction as febrifuge. Can also be used in the treatment of: hepatitis, jaundice, gastric bleeding, urinary disorders, oedema, earache and constipation.

STREBLUS

Snai

In traditional medicine, used in decoction against diarrhea and dysentery.

TRAVELLER PLANT

Ornamental plant

TURMERIC

Romiat

96 – G

WATER SPINACH

Dracuen Tra Kuon

Used to treat menorrhoea, flatulence, inflammation.
Used as a tonic.